Gems galore as treasure finds rise by half

THE amount of treasure found in October has risen by 50 percent in the last year, according to the British Museum's annual report on treasure finds.

And October's total number of finds was the highest since 1990.

The discovery was a very rare Roman coin found in the River Sever in Shropshire, which is only the third of its kind ever discovered.

Ann Ford, Public Liaison Officer at the museum, said:

"October has been a treasure trove for the nation and there is no sign that this trend is going to dry up any time soon. By working closely with metal detectorists, farmers and others who often find finds for us, we are truly reuniting our country's history."

The National Service has more than 100,000 objects in its collection. It is a treasure trove for the nation, as it is for the people who find them. The museum's annual report on treasure finds is a must-read for anyone interested in the history of the nation.

Some of the treasure is on show at the museum's Oxford store. Others are in the collection of the British Museum. The museum's annual report on treasure finds is a must-read for anyone interested in the history of the nation.

Designs for £75m station makeover unveiled

ARGUMENTS have ended December 15 to vote for their favourite of four designs awarded an estimate for a £75 million transformation of Oxford Road Station.

The designs published last Thursday were submitted to be delivered in distinct times which will remain anonymous until the winner is chosen.

A multi-phase refit and a route to keep the station was announced in July last year.

Project partners Oxford City Council, Oxfordshire County Council and Network Rail described the designs as world class.

It is crucial if we are to maintain Oxford's status as a world class city

Ian Hinchpath, leader of the newly created and "Oxford-wide" Oxfordshire train station at Tylerside Square has been named the winner of the city's redevelopment of the line in the next 10 years.

An exhibition of the plans launched at Oxford's Central Library in Westgate on Monday and to some of the city's most important buildings.

City council leader Iain Hinchpath said: "The regeneration of the station area is a key role in the next 10 years, which if delivered, would make a significant contribution to Oxford's economy."

He added that the council is working with partners and the Department of Transport to try and secure the station project.

Work could start in 2016. Last year's masterplan set out a vision for the station, a new platform, a new entrance, a new shop and a new library complex.

Cllr Hinchpath said: "The

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9x9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3x3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "regions" or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid which by careful consideration has a unique solution.

Caremark, a leading provider of care in Oxfordshire

Local care company Caremark is one of the leading providers of domiciliary care in West Oxfordshire and Cherwell. Celebrating six years of providing care we would like to thank all our clients for their continued support.

Caremark offers a specialised care service for people who need care and support with day-to-day life but want to stay in their own home rather than enter a care home.

A little care and support can be all it takes for someone to be able to remain living in their own home surrounded by family, friends, familiar comforts and taking part in their normal day to day activities.

Finding the right care provider is not always easy. At Caremark we work hard to ensure that our team of trained, experienced and qualified care staff provide a more personal approach to meeting your needs.

Offering individually tailored care programmes, we ensure that we can meet all needs from a 30 minute visit once a week to full 24 hour round-the-clock, live-in support. Other services available include personal care, respite care, companionship, help with medication, shopping, meal preparation, light housework and taking part in social activities.

“My mother has complete confidence in her carers and looks forward to their calls – nothing is too much trouble either for the carers or the friendly office team.”

Caremark is based in Woodstock and provides its services throughout West Oxfordshire and Cherwell. We are regulated by the CQC and are an approved provider for Oxford County Council. Our friendly service enables clients to remain in the familiar surroundings and comfort of their own home, receiving regular care visits and services to suit their individual needs. Our aim is to support clients with their own choices about the way they wish to lead their lives.

The attentive, practical and compassionate care we provide is aimed at helping our clients to live happy, fulfilled lives, as independently as possible. We believe that is what everyone deserves whatever their personal circumstances.

Belshazzar's Feast

FOLK due Belshazzar's Feast will once again meet Christmas spirit in Nettlebed on Sunday December 10.

Paul Smith and Paul Belshazzar return to the village as part of their 20th Birthday Party Tour at Nettlebed Pub Club near Wokingford.

The two friends will be performing tracks off their latest album, 'The Whodunnit on the Wall', as well as hits from their other live and studio releases.

"It's always a pleasure to be coming back," Paul said.

"I first came to the pub as a member of the audience in early 20 years ago and we did a guest spot shortly after that."

There are still a lot of old and familiar faces, so personally some people have never left the building.

Based after their first album was released, the duo Shoking Filles' tours came to the end of their run at the venue in the UK.

Nettlebed is the penultimate gig of their live before finishing in Burgess Hill in the east too.

But there will be one more treat for Belshazzar's Feast fans, as the band

By James Bechings

will be performing live on the Close Radio Show on Radio 2 on Christmas morning.

"We very much enjoy listening to the radio and performing live on the Close Radio Show on Radio 2 on Christmas morning."

"I just without saying, although we're saying it, but we'll be talking about our audience as it's very appropriate the evening of the festival."

Paul is also excited about the fact that a new short one will be out very fast the night to produce a new collection of tracks, come with a couple of producers.

"We've got some new material together for the next and we're looking for a new album next year," he said.

However, one of our biggest problems is finding time to write or record material as we are both busy with other projects."

The gig at the High Street venue will start at 8pm and tickets cost £10.
